1	I think the ACA makes things much more complicated	4/27/2015 4:10 PM
2	In Feb 2014 I started contacting our clients every 90 days to do a Wellness Check, this year I've had a surprising amount of clients telling me they had to go without medications because of copays or go without food so they could cover their copays. I found this real disturbing.	4/27/2015 10:28 AM
3	it is tough to navigate when all the information is not handy. would be nice to have a blueprint.	4/23/2015 10:08 AM
4	As an HIV social worker in the public health system, my knowledge of private health insurance systems is too basic to be giving advice to clients. Either we need more extensive training (without conflicts of interest of becoming an Covered CA worker) or patients need same week/drop in access to get information they need.	4/22/2015 11:36 AM
5	Right now, all my clients seem to be getting what they need.	4/22/2015 11:34 AM
6	Would like to hear and see how it pans out with other front line staff.	4/21/2015 12:50 PM
7	the system overall is still a bit clunky between behavioral, medical and housing services. Housing access, maintenance and habitability is still a BIG issue.	4/20/2015 11:26 AM
8	I don't get many patients who need ACA. Mostly, mine are straight Medi or Medi-Medi.	4/20/2015 11:22 AM
9	Clients are sometimes confused by ACA and drop out of care as a result.	4/20/2015 8:32 AM
10	Because of gaps in knowledge at the state level, we continue to run into problems with clients who fall into exception categories or have special circumstances that shift them in and out of insurance/benefits plans. Learning/sharing best practices on how to troubleshoot these issues would be helpful. Additionally, having a voice at the table from ADAP/State Office of AIDS would be extremely beneficial in order to understand their capacity to be the payer of last resort and what barriers might exist they we can potentially help alleviate.	4/14/2015 3:26 PM
11	I wish we had more official Covered CA enrollment workers who work within the HIV Systems of Care. It is hard to find someone who knows the programs (HIPP, ADAP, etc.) and also knows the care options (Kaiser, UCSF, etc.) so that they can help patients with HIV.	4/13/2015 12:09 PM
12	It is hard for people to connect to care after receiving Medi-cal expansion and Covered California	4/13/2015 11:31 AM

1	My job is to contact our clients by phone or by mail and responding to clients needs always precedence over the administrative work I have to preform after each successful contact.	4/27/2015 10:34 AM
2	My caseload on paper is 800 patients, at least 500 of whom can be classified as high acuity (history or active dual dx with MH/SA or homelessness). Helping patients eligible for ACA should be a high priority for clinics, however not realistic with this caseload.	4/22/2015 11:39 AM
3	Sometimes unavoidable scheduling conflicts happen. I really feel that there is not enough training taking place in the treatment providers community. CBHS and other used to provide training on a regular basis, but now there are very few training opportunities available in San Francisco.	4/22/2015 11:38 AM
4	I work with housing subsidies that is crucial for many clients to stay afloat here in San Francisco. I would like to see and hear out how others have helped clients to help apply it to my caseload.	4/21/2015 12:52 PM
5	I want to become more knowledgeable about ACA and benefits in general. They are always changing and to keep up is difficult. I find it very difficult to break away for such things. Even though, I believe they are vital to my knowledge and to inform my patients.	4/20/2015 11:24 AM
6	Heavy caseload primarily consists of syphilis.	4/20/2015 8:36 AM
7	Almost everything takes longer partially because the systems are new and I have to explain a lot of things to my patients. Where they used to be able to pretty much walk in and get care via Ryan White, they now have to be much more engaged in their benefits. There are more options and this is great, but patients find it to be confusing. As an ADAP EW, my workload has grown considerably b/c of all of the new requirements this program has been rolling out...very time consuming.	4/13/2015 12:14 PM

1	My client rarely ask questions about health coverage, a large percent already have Medicare and Medi-Cal. If I do get a request for information I do my best for the answer they are looking for and get back with them.	4/27/2015 10:44 AM
2	More training is needed. Training with real people, face to face. Not on-line training.	4/22/2015 11:41 AM

1	I can only speak about what my clients tell me, food resources are dwindling, more and more landlords are trying to force long term low income residence out and safe affordable housing is almost non-existent for the disabled.	4/27/2015 11:27 AM
2	San Francisco does a good job.	4/22/2015 11:42 AM
3	Poor funding/interest to deal with the need; HIV Workers must be paid well to avoid high turn-over. Most good workers only last about 2 years, disservice to HIV community!	4/22/2015 10:52 AM
4	These resources are dwindling. Especially housing resources in SF. Also, lots of times the agencies are out there, but I feel as though there's not a lot of accountability or accessibility. Sometimes places don't call back our patients.	4/20/2015 11:27 AM
5	Superior interactive network of agencies and support systems in San Francisco.	4/20/2015 8:44 AM
